Phnom Penh, ៩ April 2014

Dear Sir,

Subject: Invitation to the 5th University Scholars Leadership Symposium 2014 from 1st - 7th August 2014, at Hotel Sofitel Phnom Penh Phokeetra, Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

On behalf of the Organizing Committee and myself, I would like to inform you that Union of Youth Federations of Cambodia (UYFC), in collaboration with the Ministry of Tourism and Humanitarian Affairs United Kingdom, will host the 5th University Scholars Leadership Symposium 2014 to be held on 1st - 7th August 2014, at Hotel Sofitel Phnom Penh Phokeetra, Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

This symposium aims at bringing student leaders from institutions of higher learning as well as those working in NGO sectors with the necessary knowledge and skills to develop and implement humanitarian initiatives for the Global Poor.

The theme for this year's Symposium is "Dream It. Plan It. Do It". The symposium is specially designed to provide the next generation of leaders with an understanding of key humanitarian issues, to equip them with essential life skills, to inspire them through motivational talks, to involve them in sustainable activities and to allow them to learn through experiential service programs.

In this regard, I have very great pleasure to cordially invite you and delegates to honourably participate in the 5th University Scholars Leadership Symposium 2014. We would be very much appreciated if you could kindly confirm your participation to Ms. Janice LEONG of Humanitarian Affairs Asia - janiceleong@humanitarianaffairs.org or secretariat@humanitarianaffairs.org.uk.

Given our country's great potential, safe, clean and friendly environment together with the competitive movement slogan "Clean City, Clean Resort and Good Service", I am confident that you will find Cambodia to be exciting, mesmerising, intriguing and interesting. I do really look forward to your visit to Cambodia- Kingdom of Wonder.

Please accept, Sir, the assurance of my high consideration.

Sincerely yours,

Chairman of Organizing Committee
President of UYFC

...the...providing...opportunities for growth and involvement. The University Scholarship Leadership...enable them to deliver humanitarian aid to disadvantaged...disaster prevention.

Humanitarian Affairs, United Kingdom provides a venue for young people to be trained in doing social development work in order to mature them into world-class citizens with a global outlook towards...the problems of communities in need.

It runs programmes across different nations through the relief efforts they extend to countries and communities that are poverty and disaster-stricken. Humanitarian Affairs believes that encountering different cultures and providing aid to those suffering abroad facilitates both intellectual and emotional development for the young people it mentors. Through its projects, Humanitarian Affairs aspires to transform momentary feelings of compassion into a long-lasting sense of responsibility, community and sympathy for the Global Poor.

Humanitarian Affairs is a London-based non-profit, non-government organisation. As a social enterprise, it is incorporated under the Company Act of 1985 and registered with the Registrar of Companies in England and Wales.

Humanitarian Affairs Asia Regional Headquarters is based in Thailand. Humanitarian Affairs is a member of the World Association of Non-Governmental Organizations and the World Alliance for Citizens.

PHNOM PENH SYMPOSIUM 2014

The Phnom Penh Symposium will bring 1,000 of the world's promising student leaders in the field of sustainable development together in August 2014. It offers a unique opportunity to network with young leaders from 45 countries and those who share the same passion for alleviating the plight of the poor.

Humanitarian Affairs United Kingdom recognises the importance to enhance delegates' experiences beyond merely acquiring new knowledge on humanitarian services. Thus, nurturing creative thinkers and grooming aspiring leaders are two important programs of the Phnom Penh Symposium. Our goal is for every delegate to experience activities that contribute to their holistic development and empower them to become excellent global citizens dedicated to service leadership.

SPEAKERS

Pashpa Brest, a "Fly Hero" of the 80s, 2012, is a 28-year-old lady from Nepal who has been working on the behalf of the children of women in prison. These children, also known as Nepal prisoners' children, are the children of prisoners who are in prison for a period of 10 to 15 years. She has started a "Nepal prisoners' children centre" to provide these children with education, medical care, and the opportunity to live outside the prison walls. Pashpa has been working to help these children in the early morning. Even though she came from a very poor family, she has a successful business and was able to study in college.

As one of her first visits to the prison, she visited a women's prison and was deeply shocked by the living conditions of the imprisoned women. What moved her more was the fact that some of the children of these women lived with them in prison. One such child hugged at her, shared and smiled at her while she was going around the prison facility. It was then when she felt a strong urge to get these children out of an imprisoned life they did not deserve.

Two months after her first visit to the prison, she began a daycare centre that started with just five children. Pashpa would pick them up every weekday morning, take them to the centre and bring them back to their mothers in prison in the afternoon. Her work eventually grew into a full-fledged home called the Butterfly Home after two years since the start of her programme. Most of the children were living in the centre along with Pashpa. Her children from the home and her "Mama" receive the loving and motherly care she gives to all children who have received her guidance.

Pashpa continues to provide the best things in life for her children. With about 80 children still living inside prison walls, she is determined to bring them out to live out her promise as "Mama" to these children for good.

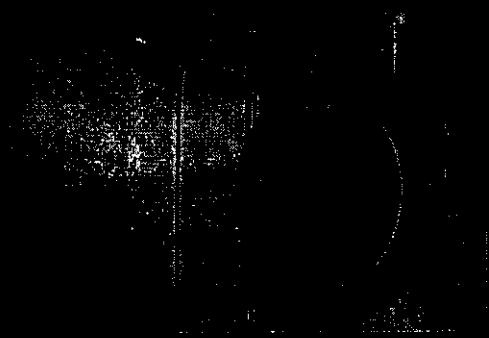

ROBIN LIM - USA

Robin Lim is a CNN Hero of the Year 2011 Awardee for her work in promoting maternal health care and traditional birthing techniques for disadvantaged mothers in Bali, Indonesia. She was pushed into pursuing midwifery in 1995 after experiencing the loss of three important women in her life - her midwife, Sunny Supplee, her best friend, Brenda Swartz, and her younger sister, Christine Kim who died while carrying a baby in her womb.

Emerging from her suffering, she decided to live her life only for love and envelope those around her with this same love. These were the beginnings of her commitment to providing mothers and babies a safe and loving environment during a mother's pregnancy, childbirth and thereafter especially after moving to Bali, Indonesia with her family.

Robin encountered challenges during her pregnancy and in her hunt for safe midwifery in Bali. It was through this experience that she decided to put up Yayasan Bumi Sehat (Healthy Mother Earth Foundation) with the help of family members and good friends. The clinic's humble beginnings started out in providing prenatal care from Robin's house. Eventually, the demand for her expertise and care grew as more and more people sought her help in giving safe maternal care for mothers who did not have enough money to pay for such services. She became known as "Ibu Robin" for her work in providing free prenatal care, birthing services and other support for them.

LEARNING JOURNEY

When I was a child, I was always a "bookworm." I would sit on the floor, surrounded by books, and read for hours. I was always the first to finish a book, and I would always recommend it to my friends. I was always the one who knew the most about the books I was reading, and I would always be the one who was asked to read aloud. I was always the one who was asked to write a book report, and I would always be the one who was asked to give a presentation on a book. I was always the one who was asked to be a class representative, and I would always be the one who was asked to be a member of the school board. I was always the one who was asked to be a member of the student council, and I would always be the one who was asked to be a member of the school newspaper. I was always the one who was asked to be a member of the school orchestra, and I would always be the one who was asked to be a member of the school choir. I was always the one who was asked to be a member of the school sports team, and I would always be the one who was asked to be a member of the school dance team. I was always the one who was asked to be a member of the school band, and I would always be the one who was asked to be a member of the school marching band. I was always the one who was asked to be a member of the school orchestra, and I would always be the one who was asked to be a member of the school choir. I was always the one who was asked to be a member of the school sports team, and I would always be the one who was asked to be a member of the school dance team.
